Bonn Fight On Pacts Postponed

To Allow Talks Among Parties

BONN, May 1 (Reuters).—West German government and opposi-tion leaders agreed today to postnone a debate scheduled to open Wednesday on the ratification of the centroversial goodwill treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland.

A government announcement after a meeting between Chancellor Willy Brandt and the op-position leader, Bainer Barzel, gave no new date for the ratification debate.

It said that Mr. Brandt and Mr. Barzel had agreed to re-sume inter-party talks to try to work out a compromise solution to differences on foreign and domestic policy. The talks will resume Wednesday.

Mr. Brandt and Mr. Barzel will be accompanied at the talks by eight politicians who met with the two leaders for four and a half hoors Friday to try to end a political crisis threatening the life of Mr. Brandt's left-liberal coalition and paralyzing the gov-

The Christian Democrats argue that the treaties permanently seal the partition of Germany, and have warned that they will not get a majority in parliament.

Mr. Brandt's Bundestag majority of four fell to two today with an announcement by a 48-year-old deputy of the coalition Free Democratic party, Wilhelm Helms, that he is applying tomorrow for guest-membership in the Christian Democrats.

Mr. Helms, who has been waver-ing for wester chaloined in last. The object of the talks on Wednesday between the party leaders is to try to draw up a joint foreign policy declaration for submission to the Bundestag along with the treaties.

The Bundestag steering committee meets tomorrow to consider the parliamentary time-table for the ratification debate on the treaties and for the unfinished debate on the 1972 bud-

Saturday, Mr. Brandt told 50,-000 cheering West Berliners that ratification of the treaties was essential for their future. "It cannot, and I say it will not, fail, for the sake of Berlin's safety," he said. Supporters and opponents of the treaties battled on the market square in Bonn Saturday night to the accompaniment of jeers, boos and shouts of "Nazis."

Senate Restores $45 Million VOA Funds to USIA

WASHINGTON, May 1 (Renters).-The Senate today overrode its Foreign Relations Committee and gave the Nixon ad-ministration the money it sought to operate Voice of America. The committee had cut funds for the U.S. Information Agency, which controls VOA, by 25 percent as part of a struggle to obtain copies of its country-bycountry planning documents.

But the Schate, after intensive lobbying by the ad-ministration, voted to restore the $45.6-million cut by the committee from the administration's requested $300 million for the new fiscal year. The vota was

Communists Take Quang Tri, First Provincial Capital to Fall

Control 27 Miles South of the DMZ

SAIGON. May 1 (AP).—The South Victnamese abandoned Quang Trl today, giving the Communists control of a broad strip of strategic territory just below the Demilitarized Zone and a springboard for ottacks farther south—possibly against Hué. The loss of Quang Trl, Hanoi's first major triumpb in the 33-day-old offensive, was accompanied by these developments in other parts of South Vietnam:

● A large area along the central coast, with a population of 300,000 and an important rice crop, fell to enemy control. • The North Vietnamese increased pressure on the provincial capital of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon. Saigonese began to feel war nerves as some officials predicted possible rocket attacks on the capital.

Quang Tri was the first South Victnamese provincial capital to fall in the offensive that began March 30 with a North Vietmese invasion across the DMZ. Allied officials believe the Communist command seeks to take over the two northernmost provinces of South Vietnam to give Hanol and the Viet Cong bargaining power at the peace talks in Paris.

Several thousand South Vietnamese troops were trying to battle their way south from Quang Tri after the city was officially abandoned. Fleld reports said at least 20 American field advisers were with them, having volunteered to stay with their units. Eighty other Americans and 49 South Vietnamese were taken out in a daring helicopter rescue operation.

A U.S. Skyraider bomber, flying with the helicopters to sup press ground fire, and an O-3 forward observer plane were shot down during the rescue. The Skyraider pilot was picked up; the late of the second was unknown, military officials said. In its advance on Quang Tri, the northernmost provincial capital, the Communists had seized Dong Ha, just to the north, Friday. The enemy now has taken control of all territory up to 27 miles south of Hué, the former imperial capital, 32 miles south of Quang Trl, is believed to be a primary target of Hanoi's drive. Fire Base Bastogne, on the western approaches to Hué, fell Saturday.

The northernmost point of government control after Quang Tri's abandonment was a marine position on Highway 1, eight miles south

Quang Tri and 24 miles north of Hué.

Brig. Gen. Vu Van Gial commander of the Third South Viet-namese Division, which formed the bulk of Quang Tri's defenders, was among several senior commanders evacuated by helicopter. He established new headquarters at Camp Evans, about eight miles soulir of the new front line.
Should the North Vietnamese actually occupy Quang Tri City.

the possibility remained that divid air strikes would be throught to bear on it. It. Gen. Hoang Knan Lam, 1st Military Region commander, has said he will order the destruction of any town occupied by the enemy.

Secret Peace Sessions Expected in Paris

Tho in Paris, Said to Hint Hanoi Shift

By Jonathan C. Randal

PARIS, May 1 (WP) .- Le Duc Tho, the North Vietnamese Politburo member associated with previcus secret peace talks, returned to Paris yesterday and suggested that Hanoi might have changed its stand for the negotiations he said he would "continoe" with the United States. In an airport statement issued upon his arrival from Hanoi by way of Peking and Moscow, Mr. Tho reiterated general North Vietnamese positions but departed from standard phraseology on two potentially important issues, suggesting a possible softening of the Communists' public image. "We do not in any fashion want to impose a 'Communist regime' in South Vietnam as Mr. Nixon claims," Mr. Tho said. This was believed to he the first time that North Vietnam had formally spoken out so forcefully on this issue, although such has long been the Viet Cong line. The North Vietnamese leader also intrigued observers by failing to mention the Viet Cong's sevenpoint peace plan by name, although he did spell out many of its demands

Hopes Raised This curious failing in a five-page statement raised hopes that Mr. The may have brought new instructions allowing him to rear-range what the United States has felt were rigid demands in previous Communist peace packages.

Mr. The said that he was "very happy to return to Paris and continue with Minister Xuan Thuy [the titular head of the Hanoi peace talks delegation] to lead the negotiations with the American party."

new secret talks of the kind has conducted since 1968 with American officials.

But his frequent stress in the airport statement on the chances of negotiations leading to a peaceful settlement were clearly intended to suggest that he was ready to resume the secret talks with the United States, which were broken off last fall amid mutual recrimination.

Moreover, Mr. Tho is officially listed only as a "counsellor" to the Hanoi peace talks delegation. He is never known to have taken (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

U.S. Aides Now Expect Hanoi To Reverse Stance on Truce

The reasons were readily apparent then. A cesse-fire at that point, when North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces were in a relatively passive and distinctly subordinate military position, would have given great ad-ment. In effect, the Communists would have been quitting the war, with the Saigon regime at its height of military and political supremacy.

But if North Vietnam, in the WASHINGTON, May 1 (NYT). The United States decided to return to the Vietnam peace conference after secret arrangements were worked out with Hanoi and Moscow for the resumption of private peace talks as well, according to a well-placed administration source.

Under the arrangement, the U.S. delegation ended its moothlong boycott of the formal ocace conference in Paris and Le Duc The, the Politburo member charg-ed with secret Vietnam regotiations, left Hanoi for Paris.

The North Vietnamese and the United States have exchanged a series of messages in the last month since the current North Vietnamese offensive began against South Vietnam, the source said.

Kissinger Trip

The arrangements for the re-sumption of talks were begun after the American hombing of Hanoi and Haiphong two weeks ago. Final details were reportedly worked out while Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's special adviser on national security affairs, was in Moscow last weekend for four days of talks with Leonid I Brezhnev, the Coomunist party leader.

Mr. Brezhnev was reported to have urged Mr. Nixon to resume talks with the North Vietnamese, suggesting that the secret nego-tiations with Mr. The might prove productive. Mr. Kissinger, who had met a dozen times with Mr. The and other North Vietnamese diplomats in private since 1969. would be the logical person to meet again with Mr. Tho.

Mr. Nixon, after bearing Mr. Kissinger's report, put into operation the machinery that led to the announcement last Tuesday that the United States would return to regular talks in Paris.

Administration officials, however, have no evidence that the talks-either in public or private -will necessarily prove more productive than previous rounds

Field reports said the North Vietnamese reached the perimeter of Fire Base Lima, six miles north of Kontum, and captured four American-made M-41 tanks. They were reportedly beaten back by South Vietnamese and U.S. air strikes and fled, leaving three tanks behind.

Enemy sappers cut Highway 1 in two widely separated places early today. They blew up a big river bridge at Go Dau Ha, west of Saigon and six miles from the Cambodian border.

Military officials were puzzled by the destruction of the bridge as it severed the highway that the enemy might have wanted to use for staging attacks out of Cam-bodia against Saigon.

Highway Is Cut Communist sappers cut Highway 1 about 10 miles north of Da Nang at the 3,500-foot Hai Van Pass that connects the big port city with Hué. The road was destroyed in two places by the sappers, who blew up culverts.

It was a significant attack in that Highway 1, also cut south of Quang Tri, is the main overland supply ronte from Da Nang to the northern front. This restricts movement of supplies north and refugees south of Da Nang. The South Vietnamese will have to rely on movement by air and sea.

There have been reports that one of the North Vietnamese objectives is to seize the Hai Van Pass, thus cutting off South Vietnam's two northernmost provinces of Quang Tri and Thua Thien.

Further sonth, Saigon continued to be spared in the enemy's of-fensive but officials said the enemy might yet hit it with a rocket attack. Some had predicted a May Day assault of some kind. Others said an attack could come next weekend-the 18th anniversary of the fall of Dien Bien Phu in the final battle of the French-Indochina war.

U.S. B-52 bombers, flying their heaviest raids of the war, blanketed the outskirts of Quang Tri with more than a score of strikes, unleashing 500 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese positions. Other waves of B-52s struck close to Saigon for the second successive day, hitting positions 30 miles northwest of the capital. Fifth Carrier Arrives .

U.S. warships off both Vietnamese coasts pounded suspected targets, U.S. Navy spokesmen said. The carrier Midway joined the armada, bringing to five the number of carriers on station in the war zone. A sixth carrier was reported en route.

American, Korean and Filipino civilians working in non-official tobs have begun evacoating Huá as a precautionary measure. U.S. officials disclosed. Only 15 or 20 remain, from a high of 70 to 80 a month ago. Most are Americans.

More than 350,000 refugees are on the roads of South Vietnam, seeking escape from the fighting northern provinces and Central Highlands.

American advisers in Saigon reported nearly a quarter of a million refugees are on the move trying to get to Hué and then on to Da Nang from the Quang Tri area. About 5,000 have boarded boats at Tam My, near Hué. to get to Da Nang by sea.

Which Way to Run'

In coastal Binh Dinh, the nation's most populous province, welfare officials said there "has been so much fighting the people don't know which way to run." They estimated the flow of refugees on foot, by truck, on rickety buses and motor bikes at 35,000 mostly from An Nhn and Binh Khe. (Continued from Page 1) Mr. Kissinger, who conducted private exploratory talks in Moscow recently on new approaches to a Vietnam war settlement, is sure just what strategy Mr. Tho will follow in the coming round of secret Paris bargaining

What U.S. planners do know, however, is that the ongoing Communist offensive in South Vietnam, even if blocked short of its goals, already has changed the balance in any negotiations. North Vietnam, as one administration source noted Friday, now has "new bargaining chips on the table," as the result of its offensive.

The White House and State Department declined comment on the report by The Washington Post in Friday's editions that the United States indicated to the Soviet Union during Mr. Kissinger's talks in Moscow that it would avoid bombing the Hanol-Haiphong area for a limited time, while the United States tests North Vietnam's intentions at the bargaining table. State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray refused to deny or confirm the report or to give any "public description" of U.S. bombing strategy in North Vietnam beyond what has been said previously. One unusual development in the continuing military-diplomatic atruggle was the abandonment, at least in the Chinese version, of all official pretenses that the current offensive in South Vietnam is being conducted by the Viet Cong.

Mr. Tho, at a dinner in Peking Thursday with Premier Chou En-lai and other senior Chinese officials, was quoted in a Chinese news report broadcast in English.

"In his speech, Comrade Le Due The said: 'We are launching an offensive against the U.S. aggressors and their running dogs on the entire bettiefield of Vletnam and have won some victories. This has immensely inspired our people. We are determined to win still greater victories ' "

U.S. apecialists interpreted Mr.

Tho's remarks as being aimed in great part at the Chinese themseives, to solicit greater support for the war from China, whose enthusiasm for major warfare in Vietnam has been noticeably flagging. Mr. Chon, at the dinner, praised the Communists' "brilliant victories" in the war. But his remarks were again described by U.S. experts as 'very moderate" in contrast to what was said hefore the warming of Sino-American relations.

At the same time, the appearance of the article in U.S.A. magazine, in effect setting the stage for Mr. Nixon's visit, was designed to show that Moscow would not let the developments in Vietnam stand in the way of agreements with the United States on other major issues,

The views expressed in the magazine, which circulates among academic leaders and policymakers, are known to reflect a significant segment of opinion in the Soviet establishment.

Labor Solidarity PARIS, May 1 (IHT).-Millions of workers paraded in cities around the world today in demonstrations of labor solidarity. Communist regimes in most East European capitals held major celebrations, but without the marching troops and armaments that they once displayed. In East Berlin, however, East Germany paraded its military might with goose-stepping soldiers and a line of weapons. The Western Allies registered their usual protest against the East German display on the ground that it contravenes Berlin's demilitarized status.

Across the wall, some 25,000 West Berliners staged leftist demonstrations in two workingclass districts. At least 28 policemen were reportedly injured, with demonstrators arrested. In Peking, festivities were less flamboyant than in recent years. Chairman Mao Tse-tung and nther members of the party and government failed to appear to acknowledge the cheera of the James Pringle, of Reuters, reported that the strong anti-American sentiment that dominated last October's National Day celebrations and previous May Day festivities was missing. The theme of the "American aggressors" was not used. Peking also suspended for the day the shelling of Quemoy and other Nationalist-held offshore islands.

Other May Day developments included: • Paris - Thousands marched without incident. After the procession, however, scuffles broke out between about 200 people carrying anarchist signs and parade marshals of the Communist-led union that organized the parade. Warsaw—With President Nixon's visit to Poiand only a month away, party leader Edward Gierek delivered a mild speech, with-out any reference to old "imperialist" targets such as the United States. West Germany or Israel.

• Stockholm-Some 40,000 people demonstrated against the U.S. role in Vletnam. Foreign Minister Krister Wickman promised 22 million more in "humanitarian assistance" for Hanoi

· Italy—The nation's three main labor confederations held rallies in the major cities and their leaders warned the nation's 20 million workers of the dangers of resurgent Fascism in next Sunday's general elections.

Japan—Some 1.2 million workers attended 650 railies. In Tokyo, 160,000 workers adopted a May Day "declaration" calling for the resignation of Premier Eizaku Sato for having "sacrificed" the interests of the workers.

FLORESVILLE, Texas, May 1 in the eyes of the world. "I will (NYT).-President Nixon came here yesterday to dine with his secretary of the Treasury, John B. Connally, and afterward—to the delight and the applause of about 200 influential Texansgave a recitation of his views on Vietnam, the oil depletion allowance, busing and other issues.

The 200 guests had been assembled by Mr. Connally from a list of old friends and contributors to his past campaigns. Althreigh the visit was hilled as "nonpolitical," it was clearly the intention of the secretary of the Treasury to expose Mr. Nixon to prominent lawyers, businessmen and editors who were anxious to shake his hand and, presumably, work for his re-election next fall.

All of the guests did have a chance to chat with the President. But what they were not preparcd for was a little impromptu treat on his part-a one-hour question-and-answer session after dinner.

Substantively, little that Mr. Nixon said went beyond news conferences in recent months or his public speeches. But his language was firm and conservative on all points, and, judging by the applause, he may well have won himself some new frienda in a state with 26 crucial electoral votes in next November's election. He returned to Washington today.

Among the President's major points were the following:

O Vietnam-Mr. Nixon said that he could not in good conscience permit a "Communist tekeover" of South Victnam. He noted that he had stopped the bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong but warned that there would be "continued strikes" if necessary and that the North Vietnamese would be "taking a very great risk" if they continued their offensive in South Victnam. He said that a Communist victory in Vietnam would cause the office of the presidency to "lose respect" not let that happen," he said.

Oil Depletion Allowance-He said "you know my attitude" about tax incentives for oil and other extractive industries. The President added that, instead of reducing depletion allowances, "we have to have incentives to encourage more exploration." because, in his view, there will be an "energy crisis" unless such expioration is pursued.

• Lyndon B. Johnson-Mr. Nixon disclosed that he had talked earlier with former President Johnson, who recently suffered a heart attack. "We have had our political differences, but each nf us has tried to leave this office with as much respect and strength as we possibly can," Mr. Nixon said.

• School Busing-He said he was aware that school busing was an issue of considerable magnitude in Texas, that he did not believe in busing for "racial balance" and that busing tended to lead to "inferior education" if undertaken without regard to the children involved.

Administration Refusal

Sen. Humphrey told 200 dock workers at Toledo that $267 million "earmarked by Congress for the construction of new ships at Great Lakes and other port sites is unused because the administration refuses to facilitate its exnenditure.

He attacked President Nixon's maritime policies in general and said that only 5 percent of all American goods shipped overseas ride in American ships. "America's fourth seacoast has become our forgotten ecacoast,"

Sen. McGovern proposed an industrial safety program calling for 8,000 industrial eafety inspectors and 4,000 hygienists to enforce the Occupational Health and Safety Act." He also said he would expand training so that workers could be their own inspectors, and promised a major research effort to improve working conditions and a commission to set safety standards on new substances.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, of Washington, whose conservative stance has apparently made some rural inroads, held a news conference in Cleveland and accused Sen. Humphrey of not taking stands on important issues. "He wants to be all things to all men," commented Sen. Jack-"I think the voters of Ohio are entitled to some straight answers from Mr. Humphrey."

Sen. McGovern, he said, "is associated with the new left wing of our party." Sen. Humphrey is also competing in neighboring Indiana, where his main rival for 76 delegates is Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace. Gov. Wallace is the target of loyalist Democrats in the Alabama primary tomorrow. In the District of Columbia, eight of the 47 delegates to be selected later will be in his camp. Most of the rest will be uncommitted under the leadership of Gov. Wendell Ford, who still supports Sen, Muskie.

In the state of Washington, Sen. McGovern appeared to be making significant inroads in the home state of Sen. Jackson, Sen. Jackson appeared certain to win a majority of the 52 delegates, but Sen, McGovern'e forces showed enough strength to net as many as 16 delegates. In Nevada, Sen. McGovern also made a stronger-than-expected showing as 20 delegates were named at the state Democratic convention. Though most were listed as uncommitted, party sources said seven each support Sen. Humphrey and Sen. Mc-Govern, while two back Sen.

McGovern Endorsements Sen, McGovern's hopes that an Ohio victory could pave the way toward the nomination were expressed in Akron yesterday after he picked up a number of new endorsements, including those of 1970 Ohio Democratic senatorial nominee Howard Metzenbaum, retiring United Auto Workers official Victor Reuther and Rep. Frank Thompson, of New Jersey.

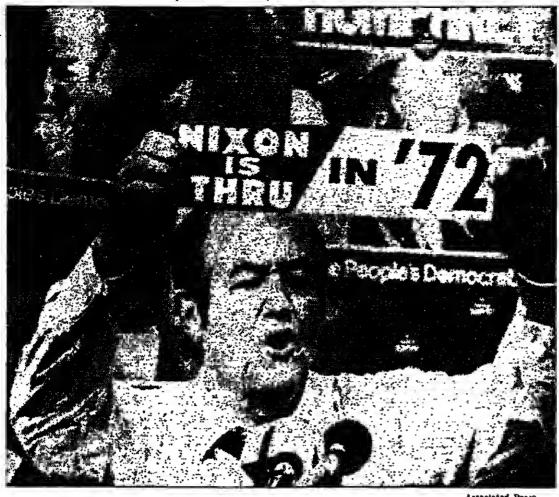

Sen. McGovern called "totally untrue" charges that he supports legalization of marijuana and unlimited abortion.

Pierre Salinger, a McGovern adviser, accused Sen. Jackson of making the charges and said Sen Jackson is "the chief spokesman" of what he called "a coalition of forces dedicated to stopping the nomination of George McGovern and handing it to Sen. Bubert Humphrey." Sen. Humphrey is winding up his campaign tonight with an hour-long television call-in pro-gram on stations in most of the state's major cities.

Astronomers Suggest a Tenth Planet

Based on Studies Of Halley's Comet

LIVERMORE, Calif., May 1 (AP).-The existence of a 10th planet in the earth's solar system was suggested Friday by scientists at the University of California's Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, The planet, the outermost in the solar system, never has been seen. The prediction that it exists is based on new and sophisticated mathematical calculations at the laboratory.

The proposed body — called Planet X by scientists—would be three times as large as Saturn-300 times the size of the earthand twice as far from the sun as Neptune. It would revolve around the sun once every 512

Mysterious Deviations

The calculations which led to Planet X evolved from studies of Halley's Comet, whose orbit contains mysterious deviations and whose appearance to earth can never be predicted with accuracy.
The calculation were made by a team of three scientists at he Lawrence Livermore Laboratory. Joseph L. Brady, a supervisor in numerical techniques, reported the team's finding in today's edition of the Journal of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific.

Mr. Brady, an anthority Halley's Comet, said that he worked out the planet's probable location through the laboratory's computer system.

The proposed planet is located the densely populated Milky Way, where even a tiny area cu-compasses thousands of stars," he said, "many of which are brighter than we expect this planet to be. If it exists, it will be extremely difficult to find."

China Ping Pong Team Concludes 20-Day U.S. Tour

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1 (AP). —After a goodwill tour of the United States, a Chinese table tennis team left yesterday for Mexico City and more exhibitions. The 37-member contingent visited eight U.S. cities in 20 days.

As the four-day stopover in northern California neared a close Saturday, the visitors relaxed at a barbecue at the Napa County Country Club.

While in the San Francisco area, the team played only one exhibition match, preferring to spend their time resting after their travels. The performance Friday was a thrilling exhibit of table tennis mastery before 7,500 spectators

Le Duc Tho Returns

Le Duc Tho, of the North Vietnamese Politburo, has returned to Paris invested with a certain aura of triumph. Hanoi's divisions are still plunging forward; there are still no signs of an effective resistance by Salgon'e troops, and the military question seems to boil down to how strong the two sides will be, relatively, when and if the North Vietnamese offensive runs out of steam. There was a painful plausibility in Mr. Tho'e statement that Vietnamization is "on the road to failure."

Yet he insists that the aim of his government is to "settle peacefully" the "Vietnam problem" by "the path of serious negotiation." But what constitutee a peaceful settlement? What are "eerlous negotiations"?

Mr. Tho says that the aim is "the abolition of any form of coercion and oppression of the people to assure conditions necessary for the realization of the most elementary democratic rights foreseen by Article 14C of the 1954 Geneva Agreements on Vietnam." That ie the avowed aim of the United States as well. Mr. Tho wants the resignation of President Thieo and "a change of policy of the Saigon administration." The American proposals, too, call for Mr. Thieu's resignation, a month before general elections, and a "change in policy" on the part of Saigon is implicit in the whole plan.

There is a good deal of skepticism about elections held in South Vietnam, and they have been far from any ideal of Democratic self-expression. But North Vietnam does not hold any elections at all. The Viet Cong has not established itself in the Sooth by counting noses, but by cutting throats. If of dignity.

the Saigon establishment is to be controlled to prevent coercion, what about the organized divisions of North Vietnam presently in the South, and the cadres of the Viet Cong?

This question is based on the goals the North Vietnamese government and its allies profess, and it is a legitimate one. The role of the Americans is another matter. In Texas, Mr. Nixon spoke of the need of maintaining the respect for the office of the President, and sustaining "the position of the United States as the strongest nation in the world." Yet the Vietnam war has done more to inspire attacks upon presidential authority than anything since World War II ended; it is virtually certain that Mr. Nixon will leave the presidency in a more restricted condition, vis-a-vis Congress and the people, than that office has known in more than a generation

Similarly, Vietnam has cost the United States a steady abrasion of strength, economically and, in the sense of public reaction against the armed forces, militarily. It is the continuation of the fighting, not victory or defeat, that can accelerate these trends. Mr. Nixon'e arguments in Texas are self-defeating. What does retain validity is the need to leave Vietnam with some structure within which to determine its own fate -not because this will aid American prestige, or strength, or secure economic advantage, but because the United States has encouraged millions to great sacrifices in the belief that this is possible. It is on that basis alone that the American delegation can engage in discussions with Le Duc Tho with any degree

The Primary Fallacy

Sen. Muskle has fallen by the wayside; Sen. Kennedy, although he eave he will refuse to be drafted, is looming in the background. Sen. Jackson, Mayor Lindsay and Rep. Shirley Chisholm are skirmishing around the edgee of the conflict, and Gov. Wallace asserts his right to be in the thick of it. Bot central to the Democratic fight, if not to the Democratic party, are Sens. Humphrey and McGovern, and the struggle will be great in the many primaries still ahead.

This is the time, said Sen. Kennedy. refusing to endorse any candidate now, for the people to tell the politicians, not the politicians to tell the people. It is a good phrase, and sums up the primary system neatly. But the big problem is: Just what are the people saying? They have said, in all the primaries thus far, that they prefer other Democrats to Sen. Muskle, Sen. Jackson, Mayor Lindsay and Mrs. Chisholm. The people of Florida say they like Mr. Wallace best of the field: those of Pennsylvania choose Mr. Humphrey; in Massachusetts they like Mr. McGovern, and so on. But in November, the voters will not choose among Democrats for the presidency. They will choose between President Nixon and some particular Democrat. And the big question is whether the Democratic candidate who emerges from the primaries and the convention will be strong enough to hold the following of his Democratic rivals and march them unitedly against the Republican opposition.

In theory, the primary is a contest within each party to pick the party'e choice for office. This theory is strengthened in most states by requiring primary voters to register for the party of their choice, But such registration stops at the voting booth in November; nothing in law or political morals requires a voter to ablde by his previous choice of party-or, for that matter, of candidates. Some states recognize this by open primaries, which permit the "crossover" of registered voters to other parties. It also permits, of course, the confusion of primary results, since the crossovers may well cross back in November.

Under such circumstances, there is absolutely no assurance that the man who wins the most votes in the primaries (fewer than half the states have presidential primaries and the rules governing each state vary widely) is the party'e strongest candidate. There is, on the face of the results, no reason to assume that Sen, McGovern would hold the supporters of Gov. Wallace if it came to a choice between Nixon and McGovern-and many McGovern supporters would, if Mr. Wallace won the nomination in Miami, vote for Nixon or a third-party candidate, or emply stay home.

It is true that success in the primaries can build up support and loyalty that was untapped or nonexistent before. That is happening in Sen. McGovern's case. It is also true that party loyalty still has some hold on the voters, although that hold grows weaker every year. Democrats, particularly, used to boast of riding out pre-election storms and eailing to the polls in triumph. Can they so boast today?

The biggest asset the divided Democrats may be able to cash in on in November would be discontent with the Nixon administration and, for that, much will depend on events beyond their control Vietnam, unemployment, the economy generally may enable the candidate of a Democratic fraction to create a negative consensus. To a limited extent, the primaries help form that consensus. But in its primary function of selecting the best possible candidates, the primary is not working well.

Wrecking USIA

There is a strong probability that Sen. William Fulbright and his Democratic colleagues on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will miss the target in their campaign to redirect the energies of the United States Information Agency. The committee has voted to redoce the USIA's budget request by nearly 25 percent, from $200 million to $150 million.

Ostensibly, Sen. Fulbright and Frank Shakespeare, the agency's director, are engaged in a dispute over the latter's refusal to make available to the committee its "program memoranda" of various countries. These documents are supposed to set forth the propaganda informational objectives in each country. If the Nixon administration were to waive its claim of "executive privilege," the memoranda would probably turn out to be boring and irrelevant.

Behind this paper battle, the antagonists are really arguing over Mr. Shakespeare's alleged determination to make his agency a vigorous epokesman for the anti-Communist cold war, while Sen. Fulbright proteste that such policies serve no useful purpose when President Nixon is making overtures to Russia and China. We characterize Mr. Shakespeare's determination as "alleged" because aside from some Thetorical flourishes of his own, calculated to impress his boss in the White House and right-wing voters in the country-it is hard to see that he has had much impact on the work of his subordinates. They are mostly trained professionals in the writing, editing and broadcasting of news and information, who try to tell the facts honestly about the United

If the USIA's output were heavily slanted and ideological, the Foreign Relations Committee would have a better case. But the agency has generally in recent years been trying to "tell America's story to the world" and to tell it straight.

The U.S. Policy Machine: II

By C. L. Sulzberger

ROME.—While President Nixon has asserted his personal role in the direction of American foreign policy in much the same way as President Pompidon does for France or Prime Minister Heath for Britain, the emergence of Henry Kissinger in this process has been at the expense of the State Department and Secretary

When Nixon was in Peking he took Kissinger along to see Chairman Mao Tse-tung; Rogers was left behind. Kissinger conducted an important Moscow mission, Many important events are settled between Kissinger and the President before the State Department even knows they are under discussion. This is partly the fault of a changing system, and partly a personality problem.

Chief executives have often built up their own White House foreign policy apparatus and the top cabinet minister's prestige has suffered. Kennedy named an aswoder secretary state even before he chose his secretary. Nixon has played Rogers down, although retaining his loyal friendship.

Provoked Resentment

This has provoked resentment among some legislators who feel their advice is being ignored, that they cannot interrogate White House staff members because of the tradition of executive privilege. The Presidential reply is, essentially, that this is part of a change in governing methods that has occurred all around the world because of modern communications and because of the need to curb paralyzing bureaucratic contradictions.

Obviously, both mechanical requirements and Nixon's personal predilections are involved. He made a serious study of foreign affairs while he was a political exile and emerged a lone wolf who didn't want to be the rubber stamp of anyone, including the State Department.

When he was still Eisenhower's Vice-President, Nixon told me he would favor Rogers as secretary of state if he ever reached the White House. Rogers was an old friend. Bot, as secretary, Rogers proved more conciliatory and less dynamic than, for example, a Foster Dulles would have been.

Kissinger, a German-born Jewish emigré, an East-Coast Harvard intellectual who had worked first for Kennedy, then for Gov. Rockefeller, had no inside track with Nixon, but he was brilliant, hardworking, and totally discreet.

In terms of both conceptual and applied policy, these qualities were invaluable to the President. And Rogers was unable to prevent certain prerogatives slipping from his grasp.

Neither he nor Nixon ever contemplated President Truman'e vague idea that maybe the United States should have both a secretary of state, chief cabinet officer and keeper of the great seal, and a secretary for foreign af-fairs to attend international conclaves. Anyway Rogers felt this wouldn't work because other nations wouldn't send foreign ministers to international con-

Although the Nixon system eems to function efficiently in producing U.S. policy, it has redoced the stature of the secretary of state and the prestige of American diplomats. Having yielded inferential power, the secretary failed to prevent slippage of certain mediocrities into the ranks of noncareer ambassadorial positions abroad, and this weakened regular U.S. Foreign Service morale.

The appointment of Martin Hillenbrand, a career diplomat, as envoy to West Germany is an effort to aright this trend. While it is argued that State Department morale is an old problemstarting with McCarthyist persecutions and followed by the Kennedy tendency to ignore the department—the difficulty is recognized. More career appointments are promised.

Essence of Diplomacy

One must wait to see how well this pledge is carried out. must be recognized that, in the words of an outstanding career diplomat, Charles Bohlen, eulogizing his late colleague, Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson: "It is as true now as it ever was that the

Whatever your political persussion, the cartoon hits home with the sad truth that this war is really going nowhere. All you have to do is change the name of the "liberators" and the rest remains the same, i. e., those who are supposed to be the beneficiaries of the war are precisely those who suffer the most; be it at the hands of the Communist or free forces playing their deadly games in Southeast Asia

My Fellow Americans:

By Anthony Lewis

Good evening.

As you have seen in your newspapers and .on your television screens in the last few days, a new challenge confronts the American commitment to freedom in Vietnam, Communist forces, with the help of disloyal Sooth Vietnamese elements, have seized control of Saigon.

Tonight I want to tell you how plan to meet that challenge and bring lasting peace to Southeast Asia.

First let me remind you that when I took office, in 1969, there were more than 500,000 American soldiers in Victnam, suffering up to 300 casualties a week. By 1972 I had reduced the troop ceiling to 50,000.

The struggle against the Communist enemy has been carried on by the South Vietnamese themselves. Their gallant army, under the courageous leadership of President Thieu, has stood up well during all these years, even when taking casualties as high as 1,000 a week.

U.S. Plays Its Role

The United States has played its part in the continuing de-fense of freedom by giving air and naval support. When the North Vietnamese seized Quang Tri, Hué, Kon Tum and other cities in their great offensive of 1972. we successfully prevented them from capitalizing on their armed conquest by destroying those cities.

This year again the Communist invaders have struck at the northern and central regions of South Vietnam. The gains they were oble to make were countered by what our intelligence appraisals show was extremely heavy damage from the air in all the areas they control.

But then last weekend there came a carefully planned and surreptitious attack on Saigon, North Vietnamese units infiltrated into the outskirts of the city and were joined by subversive groups working inside the army of South Vietnam and by some dialoyal politiciana,

I have here in my hand a report from Ambassador Bunker. It leaves no doubt that this was a clear case of aggression. The conspirators showed their true colors by arousing the public even against the American advisers who had been helping to defend them. The result was nothing less than the naked and brutal takeover of a free city. However, I am happy to tell you that American guarding our embassy and headquarters in Saigon resourcefully evaded the dislaval elements in the South Vietnamese Army and made their way to our base at Cam Ranh Bay. Ambassador Bunker and his staff are there, and President Thieu has moved his government to Cam Ranh. There have been voices in America this week urging that we give up our commitment to freedom in South Vietnam-the commitment of Dwight Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson. You have heard those voices. Tonight I am giving my answer. It is no:

We are not going to forget oor promises to the people of South

Here are my reasons:

President Thieu heads the freely elected government of South Vietnam. If we abandon that government, if we let it succumb to naked aggression, then we would be telling our friends everywhere that they can no longer count on the United States as a friend.

This is a test of wills. What is at stake here is not just Vietnam but American leadership for peace in the whole world. The choice is to exercise that leadership or to abdicate it and thus invite the destruction of free government everywhere.

As I have said before. leadership role in the world reourres that we make one thing clear: When we are hit, we will hit back. I have consulted my senior advisers in Washington and Cam Ranh on how best to

Tonight I am announcing my decision. We shall strike at the aggressors in South Vietnam with our most effective weapon-the bombers operating from our carriers and bases in Thailand. Many targets were considered, but I have chosen to shorten the conflict by hitting directly at the enemy command.

Accordingly, as I began speaking to you, 120 B-52s took off to bomb Saigon. They are under strict instructions to hit only roads, rail yards, docks, industries and other military targets. Civilian casualties will therefore be held to a minimum.

We shall continue to offer generous terms for peace. We seek no territory. We ask only that the illegal elements that have selzed power in South Vietnam turn in their arms and restore Thieu to the presidency If they do, we shall immediately suspend the bombing.

Respect for President

Let me close with this thought I have visited 36 countries at President, ecarching for peace, and everywhere I have found respect for the office of the Pros-

That would mead a lessened respect for the next President of the United States, whoever he is. It would mean renunciation of our morality. Thank you and good night.

The majority Justice party of Sulcyman Demirel, the Republian People's party led by Ismet Inonu, and the smaller Democratic and National Reliance parties have all announced willingness to take part in Mr. Urgupin's new government.

Political sources said Mr. Urguplu's plan to draw ministers from all four of these parties had met problems due to differences between the Justice party and the Democratic party, and a policy split in Republican ranks. They speculated that Mr. Urguplu may compromise by dropping plans for inclusion of the Democratic party, which should still leave him enough support to insure the necessary vote of confidence in parliament after the cabinet is formed.

IIt is understood that Sheikh Mujib will attend the summit without first receiving formal recognition of Bangladesh by Pakistan. He had previously demanded recognition as a precondition for any talks between himself and President Bhutto. This apparent accommodation between the negotiators on the Bangladesh role at the summit has opened a way around the procedural impasse preventing discussions aimed at the release of Pakistani prisoners of war.]

Representatives of the two countries have been meeting in Pakistan to try to set up the summit conference.

The meeting will be the first by the heads of the two govern-ments since 1966 when the late Premier Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and former Pakistan President Mohamed Ayub Khan drew up the Tashkent Declaration,

Guinea Is Letting Ghana Reclaim Nkrumah's Body

LAGOS, May 1 .. (Renters) .-Guinea has agreed to release the body of former Ghanaian President Kwame Nkrumah for burial in his home country following the intervention of federal leader, Gen. Yakubu Gowon, official Radio Nigeria reported today.

The radio quoted Guinean Presiden Sekou Touré as saying in a message to Gen. Gowon that his agreement to release Mr. Nkrumah's body was an act of "personal respect of Gen. Gowon."

A representative of Gen. Gowon will accompany an official Gha-naian group that will take Mr. Nkrumah's body from Conakry to Accra, the state-owned radio

The radio did not mention any funeral date or when President Toure's message to Gen. Gowon was sent.

But it quoted its staff correspondent as saying President Touré had turned down requests from other African countries for the release of Mr. Nkrumah's body to the Ghanaian authorities. Gen. Gowon returned to Lagos today after a six-day visit to Togo, where he and President Etienne Eyadema decided on the establishment of the nucleus of

U.K. Dockers Bangladesh Leader to Attend Three Ports

TUC Eases Its Stand On Industrial Court

LONDON, May 1 (AP).-Dock workers walked out of three major British ports today, paralyzing their operations and hardening a crisis between unions and govern-

But the Trades Union Congress, the union federation representing 10 million organized workers, reversed its former policy and told the unions they could defend themselves before the newly formed Industrial Relations Court.

Previously the TUC had refused to recognize the court and instructed its members to boycott it. Two thousand dockers at Southampton struck for 24 hours in protest at fines totaling £55,000 imposed on their union by the Industrial Relations Court and at the terms of the government's new Industrial Relations Act.

Liverpool Docks Idle

In Liverpool, center of a dispute over container shipping, 10,000 dockers took an unofficial holiday to mark May Day. Preston docks were idled by a stoppage of nearly 300 men.

The court has fined the giant Transport and General Workers Union for contempt because its docker members defied an order to stop refusing to handle containers ferrled to Liverpool by a haulage company. The Liverpool dockers refused to handle the containers because they were not loaded or unpacked by registered port workers.

More container consignments were refused at Manchester today, although the port worked normally otherwise. The TGWU nevertheless bowed to the court tonight and agreed to pay the fine. The decision came after a five-hour meeting of the union,

Tory Victory

It marked a victory for the Conscrvative government in its confrontation with the unions, Until now the TGWU, like most other British unions, had refused to recognize the Industrial Court, although it has the same legal standing as the High Court. The 40-man executive of the TGWU said it would pay the fine "under protest." It said it ex-pected the TUC to reimburse the money. Failure to do so would mean that the TGWU would not pay its annual affiliation fee of £123,000 to the TUC for an agreed period, the executive said.

The union urged the TUC to call a special congress to charify its strategy concerning the In-dustrial Court. It has also convened a conference of docker delegates for Thursday to discuss the situation in the docks.

Matadors Call Off Walkout in Spain

MADRID, May 1 (AP),-Spanish matadors postponed today their mass resignation, averting what would in effect have been the first nationwide builfight strike in history.

The bullfighters' guild agreed to delay further action until the Finance Ministry works out a new formula for them to pay past and future taxes.

The guild had threatened to "give up" professional activity "because it does not pay off." Failure of the stars to appear today would have forced cancellation of 28 scheduled bullfights and made idle 10,000 to 15,000 persons connected with bullfight-

USAF Sergeant Whose Blood Was Drained Says, 'I Feel Fine'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 1.—An Air Force sergeant who was placed in bloodless suspended animation for about 10 minutes while surgeons drained his diseased blood and then replaced it with new blood said, "I feel fine, just like I did before the iliness."

He is Staff Sgt. Tors Olson, 20, who underwent the operation March 31 at the Wilford Hall Air Force Medical

He appeared at a news conference here this weekend, looking well and not pale, but he answered questions about his condition reluctantly. However, he did say, "I remember waking up the next day after the operation and seeing my mather and father. We sang a couple of hymns"

Sgt. Olson, it is hoped, can be released from the hospital within two to four weeks. The leader of the team that performed the blood exchange was Col. Gerald Klebanoff, nf New York City. He described the operation as a "last-ditch effort" to save Sgt.

In the procedure, virtually the entire blood supply was replaced for more than eight minutes with salt water, after which new blood was introduced into his circulatory system. Sgt. Olson was in a comp at the time.

It is believed to be the first time that a human being has been completely deprived of blood in an effort to purge his system of the poisons that accumulate when the liver is not functioning. As in other surgical procedures that stop the flow of fresh, oxygen-laden blood to the brain, the patient's body was chilled to 85 degrees Fahrenheit, slowing his body functions. In this way it was possible to suspend blood circulation to the brain for more than eight minutes.

Although the liver is capable of regeneration, even when a large percentage of it has been destroyed, its failure as a blood-cleansing organ can imperil such restoration. The victim may go into a coma from which recovery is doubtful.

For some years efforts have been made to saye such patients by repeated exchange transfusions in which large amounts of donor blood are introduced as the poisoned blood is removed. However, these only partly cleanse the blood-

The call for a May Day demonstration was issued more than a week ago by several clandestine left-wing groups. Scattered strikes and incidents in various parts of Spain have been reported in the past days. Phone Relay Blown Up

On Saturday, a group of extremists forced their way at gunpoint into one of Spain's most modern radio-telephone relay stations and blew it up, police sources reported. The attack on the hilliop transmitter located seven miles from San Sebastian was made in broad daylight.

Burundi Reports Coup Bid Fails; Ex-King Is Slain

KAMPALA, Uganda, May 1 (UPI).—The Burundi government imposed an all-night curiew on the tiny central East African nation because of a coup attempt in which its former 25-year-old king died, according to a Burundi radio broadcast, yesterday. Burundi radio said the attempt to overthrow President Michel Micombero's five-year-old government was made by "monarchists and imperial agents."

It said the attempt occurred

Saturday night and former King Ntare V died when supporters tried to free him from the former royal palace at Gitega. King Ntare, overthrown in 1986 by Mr. Micomhero, an army colonel, had been held at Gitega since his arrest a month ago. He returned from exile in West Germany in the belief he had recelved an amnesty. The government accused him of

A Refresher Course in Rome

American Action Painting, Marl- "To Gabriella With Love," is the borough, 5 Via Gregoriana, to most alive painting in Rome this Despite its many faults, this badly misnamed show offers a refresher course on the tremen- Kline open limitless spaces. There America, in Italy, it is still arte dous achievement of the New York School—that generation of painters who, after European art had been eaten up by Picasso, gave American art and modern art the whole world over a new impetus.

One of the school's founders-Gorky—is not represented in the show. Many canvases are obviously minor examples from warehouses. The best paintings in the show are small, although se men and women were at their best on giant canvases. Yet there is enough here to teach those who know little about these artists and to remind those familiar with their work of their month. One loose, masterful flourish in rosepale clarity, it eteals the show. Small sketches by is a gnarly, stringy Guston drawing, some woolly, moody, purposefully gauche Guston oils, a splashy Pollock, Welcome, because their work is little known here, are the exhorting austerities of Ad Reinhardt, the dreamy, curlicue forms by Baziotes and Stamos's fine, new colorfield paintings. Rothko, Still, Motherwell, Gottlieb, et al. are present. But where are Newman, Tworkov, Resnik, Cavallon, Frankenthaler and Joan Mitchell? Even Hoffmann, Vicente, Bluhm and Hartigan should have been included. Without them, no survey of the New York School could be complete.

Kounellis, Attico, 41 Via del Paradiso, Rome, to the end of May. Kounellis is one of the more alert inventors of the "happening" as an art form. Now calledas in modern music-"pieces" in DODETAL

In this retrospective, in a beautiful Renaissance apartment in a palace in old Rome, Konnellis shows how far he's come. In his 1960 canvases, where numbers or letters exquisitely counterbalance each other, he was still a tradi-tional painter. A black number three stands superbly alone on one pale canvas.

But the canvas in his latest "piece"—with its musical notes pencilled on a ground of pink oil is not a painting but a backdrop, functioning as a third of a whole event. It hangs behind a live violinist playing Stravinsky's "Tarantella" from "Pucinella" and a dazzling ballerina. This elegant tableau vivant, though mocking and wry, is too sweet.

After the paintings and the new rice," the events in the other rooms range from the macabre through the tritating to the evocative. In one, 12 lighted gas jets roar. In another, lies a paid performer, employed to be covered by a blanket, and stick out a bars foot with a gas jet strapped to it. There is a cawing parrot, cacti, a hopperful of coal, bleached wool. Some white laboratory rats lead imappetizing lives caged in the mattress of a bed right next to the pretty "Tarantella" perform-ance Best of all, I liked a doorway filled with roughhewn fieldstones, Contemporary establishment art is not often as mordant or spectacular as Kounellis's. Simona Weller, Artivisive, 60 Via Brunetti, Rome, to May 10. Weller's "written paintings" are captivating. They look like blowups of school exercises, the cal-ligraphy describing the things drawn pext to them-butterflies, frogs, bees and grapes. She is at her best when an abstract idea is spelled out, as in "Blu, Azzuro, Celeste" (different blues in Italian), scrawled repeatedly in blue crayon making a lyrical pat-tern. But, often, she is too selfconscious. Of course, it is apparent to Weller that it takes deep effort to rediscover early innocence, She is still awkwardly groping to go beyond the imitative, but a newcomer to the Roman school of "painting-writing" of Novelli, Twombly, Baruchello, Cego and Korab, Galerie Albert Loeb, 10 Rue des Beaux-Arts, Paris 8, to May 15.

Austrian painter Karl Korab does small-scale works with a sort of monumental quality about them that somehow blends with a miniaturist treatment. The paradox arises out of the fact that the elements he portrays on these small surfaces seem to be on the scale of, say, the hull of a small freighter and, like the hull, covered with slightly chipped paint that allowe the coat of red lead paint underneath to show through. The dominant subject is a rather ominous halfmask in profile from which emerces a shaven occiput and occasionally a blank eye. The malaire one may feel in looking at it seems to arise out of the aesthetic enjoyment that Korab puts into the treatment of a sinister theme.

The first production here reveal-the composer and librettist will change, and they begin with that unfortunate title: "Another Spoonful of Poison, Darling?" Far more urgently, though, the

Black-Comic Opera Gets World Premiere in Berlin

BERLIN (IHT).—East Berlin's its course. He doesn't have to wait long.

Free Tonality

Matthus has employed the Singspiel form, interspersing arias and ensemble numbers with considerable spoken dialogue. His latest opera proved him thoroughly versed in the latest techniques of musical composition, but to suit his present material he has returned to free tonality and evoked the spirits of Mozart, Rossini and Offenbach. His wit matches that of the libretto.

Götz Priedrich has staged the work with a delicacy of touch which never becomes arch, and Reinhart Zimmerman (sets) and Eleonore Kleiber (costumes) have framed it with a fanciful evocation of Brighton and its inimitable atmosphere. Jutta Vulpius and Hanns Nocker, as the murderons newlyweds, and Rudolf Asmus, as the inspector, headed uniformly optstanding cast, and Gert Bahner conducted his eight singers and 18 instrumentalists with verve and gusto.

Book World To Close Down At End of Month

Financial considerations were a prime factor. But also of major importance were complaints to the Tribune that Book World, edited by a staff in New York, did not pay enough attention to books by Midwestern authors.

Benjamin C. Bradlee, executive editor of The Washington Post, said that the Post would beein publishing its own 16-page supplement under the name Book World, beginning June 4, under the editorship of William McPherson, the paper's current book editor.

The Tribune said that it, too. would begin producing a locally edited book review section on June 4. The new staff is to-be headed by Robert Cromie, its regular book columnist who is now a contributing editor to Book World.

Mr. Bradlee said that the Post will syndicate reviews as it did under the New York-based operation and the Tribune would be one lines and wait for nature to take, of its more important clients.

The 44-year-old American, who was participating in a seminar, has been charged by Treasury Secretary John B. Connally with the task of representing the United States in arranging the procedures for negotiations, which will probably begin next year and could last well into the decade.

Key Inner Group

According to informants, the compromise pattern that was discussed is still in the process of being worked out. It would involve a key inner steering group doing the technical work and making the proposals for a larger groop of 20 nations.

Members of the EEC, as It would exist next Jan. 1 with four new members, met in Rome last Monday and Tuesday and agreed that a group organized within the framework of the International Monetary Fund should make the final decisions. This would be the so-called group of 20, so known because 20 national delegates sit on the IMF executive board.

The United States had wanted a much smaller body and one not linked to any present institutions because this might restrict the range of the negotiations.

The essence of the compromise was European acceptance of the principles of a small steering

U.S. Readies Increase in Oil Imports

Fuel Shortage Action Likely Within 10 Days

By Edward Cowan WASHINGTON, May 1 (NYT).

-To alleviate the country's intensifying shortage of fuels, the administration is preparing to make a substantial increase in its quota for foreign crude oil. The present quota for shipments to markets east of the Rocky Mountains, 750,000 barrels a day, may be increased by as mnch as 250,000 barrels. President's oil policy committee discussed the matter last week and presidential action is expected within 10 days.

To keep up with demand for petroleum products, refiners im-ported in the four weeks that ended April 21 an average of nearly 1.5 million barrels of crude oil a day, or 618,000 barrels more than a year earlier.

The refiners have been "borrowing," in effect, from the oil they will be allowed to import later in the year, and they have been telling the government that they must have a higher quota to avoid a production cutback. Pressure on Canada

Mr. Nixon is being advised by some of his own staff and the Treasury to make no increase in imports of Canadian crude, which come under a separate quota. These advisers argue that it is time to get toogh with Canada to make Ottawa soften its posi-tion in stalled trade negotiations with Washington,

Although Mideast oil is landed at Northeastern ports at about $1.25 a barrel cheaper than Texas oil, the administration prefers to ration imports to give domestic products the biggest possible market and to minimize the impact of oil on the national trade

The program of mandatory imports was imposed by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1959. He said that encouraging domestic production and exploration was in the interest of national security. That argument was challenged last week in a suit intended to invalidate the quotas as unlawful,

NEW YORK, May 1 (NYT).—
Prices crumpled on the New York Stock Exchange today as the Dow Jones industrial average showed its biggest decline in six months. The blue chip Dow sank 11.89 to 942.28, finishing less than a point away from its poorest reading of the day. Two big worries—one old and one newly emerging—hung over the stock market. The old problem was the uncertainty of a deteriorating military situation in Vietnam.

The more recent worry is the concern aroused in business circles and in Wall Street by the apparent crackdown on corporate profits by the Nixon administration. There is some fear that profit-margin restrictions might dampen the domestic economic recovery.

Weekend developments put a crimp in the stock prices of American Can, down 1 to 31 1/4, and Continental Can, off 1 1/2 to 31 1/8. The Price Commission suspended previously-approved price increases granted to the nation's two largest can manufacturers, saying it had second thoughts about the "consumer impact" of the increases

Gold issues and savings-andloans were among the few pockets of relative strength in the broad-scale setback. The slow trading pace of 12.88 million shares denoted an absence of bids, rather than any rush to sell by investors.

General Motors, down 1 1/2 to 78 7/8, announced after the market closed that directors declared a special dividend of 25 cents in addition to the customary quarterly payment of 85 ceots. This marked the first special payout since a similar action taken in the second quarter of 1869. Recently, GM reported that its firstquarter profits were the highest for any three-month period.

Gateway Industries, falling 1/4 to 8 3/4, displayed the largest percentage loss. The company said it has been informed by Chrysler that the auto maker considering plans to produce its own scat belts for the 1873

Price of Gold Soars to $50, Shortness of Supply Cited

LONDON, May 1 (AP) .- The price of gold on the free market rose here today to over $50 an ounce-its highest point since World War 2. Dealers said the increase was caused by some limited demand in a thin market.

At the afternoon fixing the price was set at $50.35 an ounce, np from $50.20 at the morning fixing and 75 cents higher than Friday's price.

Dealers said there was a comparatively small turnover as most European markets were closed because of the May Day holiday. When these reopen tomorrow, dealers said, they will be able to judge whether today's shortage was local or whether the gold shortage also was being felt in Europe,

Although the Zurich market was closed, the other Swiss market in Geneva recorded an afternoon high of $50.45 an ounce after opening at $49.90 this morning. A bullion dealer said there were no particular factors ap-

The Geneva price was the highest to be asked in Switzerland since the 1949 high of $53 an ounce. "There's very little speculative

U.S. Stock Sales To Foreigners Doubled in Month

WASHINGTON, May 1 (NYT). -Foreigners stepped up sharply their purchases of stock in the United States following the Dec. 18 Smithsonian agreement on currency-exchange rates, but their sales also rose in January and February as uncertainty develop-ed about the stability of the new

Figures in the Treasury Bulletin this weekend showed that foreign purchases of United States $1.38 billion from $665 million in November, when the exchange rate of the dollar was still in doubt. Net foreign purchases in December were $483 million, the largest by far for any month of 1971, which saw many months of net foreign sales. Foreign purchases in January and February continued at roughly the high December level, but foreign sales also rose sharply in those two months. The result was that net foreign purchases fell to $269 million in January and $182 million in February.

Last year, Bache underwrote nearly $2,500,000,000 worth of growth.

We were manager or co-manager of corporate underwritings amounting to $734,000,000...participants in another $612,000,000... for a total of $1,346,000,000.

We managed, co-managed, or participated in the underwriting of tax-exempt securities totaling $382,249,200.

We underwrote and sold $500,000,000 worth of Government

National Mortgage Association Certificates.

And we underwrote $164,000,000 worth of new mutual

Yes, it was a good growth year for Bache. And we expect 1972 to be even better.

The salient fact of the year was the decision by Bondtrade to make no further transactions in convertible bonds for their own account. They continue nevertheless with the execution of orders passed to them and publish the prices at which transactions execution of orders passed to them and publish the prices at which managements took place.

Co-operation with the member banks of European Banks International Company (EBIC) was further evidenced by the opening of a joint representative office in Toronto. On the other hand the genuine European character of EBIC was reinforced by the admittance of two new partners, namely Société Générale (France) and Creditanstalt Bankverein, Vienna, who number among the largest banking organizations in their respective countries.

Three no-trump is the normal contract on the diagramed deal, and both teams reached it without difficulty when the hand was played in a recent U.S. tournament. In the auction shown, the two-diamond bid was "forcing Stayman" and South's rebid denied a major suit.

In the replay, South opened one club, and rebid one no-trump after a response of one heart. North raised to two no-trump and South bid game.

At both tables, West led the club queen, which was allowed to win, and South won the club continuation. South took the spade king, and ran the spade ten, losing to the queen East was on lead in this position:

NORTH A AJ O AQ52 Ø 984 ♦ 84 ♥ KJ7 SOUTH ♦ KQ107

At both tables, East returned a low diamond and South played the king. But the play then diverged. At one table, West took the ace and shifted to the heart nine. Dummy ducked, East won with the jack and returned a diamond. South now finessed against the isck winning in dummy with the nine, and cashed his two spade winners. He knew that East was reduced to two vital cards in each red suit, and the lead of dummy's last club was a killer. Whether East gave up the guard for his diamond jack or for his heart king, South had his ninth trick. In the replay, when South played the diamond king, he was allowed to win. The duck was made without hesitation, giving South no clue. Not unnaturally, South subsequently misguessed by leading a diamond and playing the queen from his hand. From this play there was no recovery, and the contract went down one.

Like a murder in "Macbeth" that will not down, the ghosts of Hemingway's past writings continue to stalk us—those writings, that is, he did not publish in his lifetime, presumably because he thought them unpublishable. Only the estate can receive them without mixed emotions.

We have had "Islands in the Stream," the novel he set finally revised, which became a best seller through a remarkable nostalgic de Hemingway but showed only flashes of the master. Now at hand we have a book called "The Nick Adams Collection of 24 Stories and Sketches," of which eight have never published. We are meant, I take it, to experience his never-written portrait of himself as a young man in this assemblage of all the stories featuring Nick Adams, his youthful alter ego. They are arranged in a chronology of literary, not real-life, time; the stories were written over a span of about 10 years. Some of them, such as "The Killers" and "Big Two-Hearted River," are familiar; many of the new ones are the literary equivalent of the cannibalization of spare parts-pieces of other stories that Hemingway cut out that have been resurrected on their own,

The first story, "Three Shots," for example, was originally part of "Indian Camp," in which Nick watches his father perform a caesarian section on an Indian woman while her husband, unable to hear her cries of pain, slits his throat. Alone, "Three Shots" stands as a vignette of a boy's fear, accorded sympathy by his father and impatience by his uncie. As part of the stark and "Indian Camp," however, spare it was clearly excess baggage and, knowing that it was cut out, one can only read it with admiration for the nascent and ruthlessly true artistic impulse that caused its excision.

Another fragment is "Night Before Landing," which paradoxically can only stand as a fragment: When one knows that it was a part of a novel Hemingway began and never finished about his war experiences, one senses the fragment slipping through one's hands and its ending sinking into inconclusiveness. It is not quite a short story; characters are picked up but they are pregnant with potential future actions. In Hemingway's best short stories, a curtain is parted then closed, revealing the center of a man's being. An energy flows between the two terminals arbitrarily defined by the categories of "short story" and "novel" that is the creative energy of the artist, yet the stronger expectation is the rounded wholeness of the short-story stories is called "Summer People in which Nick moves in on a g who is loved unrequitedly by friend. The story etches t perversity of love—Nick's dex for the girl, hers for him and t supererogatory passion of third party. There is no just in the passions of the your so the lover whose constar: makes him the most deservi becomes the patsy, worthy only

"The only writing that was a good was what you made to Hemingway wrote in "On Wr ing," rejecting autobiographi fiction, preferring to let & perience park in the darker rea ses of his subconscious and en into imagined art. He fault James Joyce for his self-porter in Stephen Daedalus in "Ulysse and by implication we can see w these Nick Adams stories we never meant to be autobiograph Nick Adams unites them in nar only and the best of the stori stand alone, not as links in chain. "The Nick Adams Storie neither add nor detract fro Hemingway's memory, and it good to have a collection of t good ones, but this present a rangement does not create s new synergism.

Kuhn: A's Blue To Sign Today

NEW YORK, May 1 (UPI) -Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn said today that Vida Biue, the American League's most valuable player and pitcher of the year in 1971. will report to the Oakland Athletics tomorrow in Boston "prepared to sign his contract."

Kuhn said the terms "were worked out last week in Chicago" and it is believed the contract calls for $63,000 for 1972—a compromise between the $92,500 originally demanded by Blue and the $50,000 final offer" by Oskland owner Charles O. Finley.

Highlight of Penn Relays

Fastest Sprint Medley in History Is Run by North Carolina Central

By Neil Amdur PHILADELPHIA, May (NYT).—Take two of Kenya's finest track and field athletes, team them with some of America's top runners, and you can understand why North Carolina Central was the magic name in the 78th annual Penn Relays Saturday. On a aunny, balmy afternoon conducive to fast times. the Carolina contingent treated 37.351 Franklin Field fans to a series of exhilarating performances that included the fastest sprint medley relay ever run anywhere and the fastest 830relay ever run in the East. It was the largest Penn Relays crowd in 12 years. Only a meet-record performance by Pennsylvania, with a superb anchor leg from Bruce Collins, kept Carolina from sn-other championship in the shut-

Their victories amounted to runaways, a tributa to the talent of such magnificent international runners as Juliu Sang, in the quarter-mile, and Robert Ouko. his Kenyan countryman and one of the world's premier half-milers.

Central's sprint medley time was 3 minutes 14.8 seconds, almost 50 yards ahead of William and Mary. In the 880-relay, NCO broke the meet record by 1.5 seconds and outran Texas (El Paso). with its set of sprint specialists, by aix yards en route to a time 1:21.8

446-Yard Relsy

Norfolk State was the defending champion in the 440-yard relay, but Texas (El Paso) had lowered the meet record in trials Friday. Adroit exchanges, particularly on the third and fourth legs, were the difference in Saturday's final as State beat UTEP by a yard in 39.9 seconds.

It was Dr. Leroy Walker, the respected Carolina coach, who convinced Sang and Ouko, two of Kenya's finest athletes, to study in the United States and prepare for the Munich Olympics. In pairing the two Africans with Larry Black, the top-rated American at 220 yards. Walker had an almost unbeatable sprint medley unit.

The sprint medley consists of an opening 440, successive 220s and a final 880. By the end of the first quarter-mile Saturday, which Sang sprinted in 46.4 seconds, it was not a matter of whether Central would win, but how fast it could finish.

Ouko ran a glorious 880. His first 440, an unbelicvable 49.7 seconds, was in the tradition of great African runners who go out as hard as they can and then attempt to sustain the kick. His 1:47.7 for the half-mile was fast enough to break the record for the event set five years ago by a Kansas contingent anchored by Jim Ryun.

All four members of the Carolina team, along with Wheeler and Ray Robinson of Florida A&M, who won the 100yard dash in 9,3 seconds, wore a new shoe that may revolutionalize traditional theories about Greg Fredericks of Penn Stata also smashed a meet mark, winning the three mile in 13:31.5. Penn won the shuttle hurdle relay in 56.9 seconds for the first relay title at its own carnival since 1959. Duke captured its second Penn Relays crown-and first since 1941-by winning the four-mile in 16:34.5. Tennessae took the two-mile relay in 7:23.4.

On Friday Villanova, running with an improvised team in the distance medley relay and given little chance against soma of the country's strongest teams, won the event with a meet record performance of 9 minutes 37.5 seconds. The victory extended their unbelievable string of championships in these relays to 18 consecutive years.

Not even a brilliant 3:59 mila leg by Boh Wheeler of Duke could catch John Hartnett, the VIIlanova anchorman, on the last WALNUT, Calif., May 1 (WP). —Ralph Boston came to the Mount San Antonio Relays Saturday with a single purpose in mind. The man who broks Jesse Owens's 25-year-old long jump record on this track in the San Jose Hills in 1960 wanted only to jump 25 feet. 7 inches without wind assistance.

After working at their drawing boards for two years, they came up with the "Muskie," a name they were sure would have consumer appeal.

Before investing money in the model the manufacturers took surveys all over the country. They discovered that, compared to other models that would be offered in 1972, the "Muskle" was leading 2 to 1. At one point, it was rated more popular than the "Nixon," and Presidential Motors was sure it had a winner on its hands. As a result of the surveys, millions of dollars were allotted for a high-powered advertising campaign. The "Muskie" was described as a front-runner, unbeatable

E. Fittipaldi

MADRID, May 1 (AP),-Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil piloted his John Player Special around the Jarama Circuit today at an average speed of 148.623 kilometers an hour to win the Spanish Grand Prix and tie for first place in the 1972 world championship for Formula One

His fastest lap was 1:21.6, at 151,191 kph.

Fittipaldi shares the lead with Dennis Hulme of New Zealand both with 15 points in the standings. The Brazilian was sensational. He took command from Scotland's Jackie Stewart, the defending champion, on the 10th lap and never lost it.

Stewart, who won last year's Spanish Grand Prix at Barlona's Montjuich circuit, held third until he dropped out on the 75th lap. He had skidded on an oil patch and knocked the nose come off his Tyrrell-Ford as he brushed a guard rail. His radiator was dented and, losing water from it, he had to quit, Hulme retired on the 49th lap with a broken oil pump in his Yardley McLaren Ford.

Fittipaldi was timed in 2 hours 3 minutes 41.23 seconds for the 90-lap, 806.36-kilometer race, finishing 19 seconds ahead of the Ferrari 312-B of Jacky Ickx of Belgium. Ickx was the only driver to finish on the same lap as the winner.

Another Ferrari, driven by Switzerland's Clay Regaszoni, was third, timed in 2:04:04.28 for 89 laps. Italy's Andrea de Adamich in a Surtees was fourth and Peter Revson of the United States took fifth in a McLaren

The Standines

Second place gave Ickx a total of 10 points and third in .the championship standings, followed by Stewart with 9, Regazzoni with 6 and Revson with 5 after three Formula One events this year. It was the 25-year-old Fittipaldi'e second career Formula One victory. He won the U.S. Grand Prix in October, 1970. Ickx, who had pressed Fit-tipaldi after the Brazilian took the lead, recorded the fastest lap of the day with 1:21.01 around the 3.4-kilometer circuit for an
